WASHINGTON – Residents of Warren County and surrounding communities are invited to attend the second annual Warren County Disability Resource Fair, “Building Connections, Enhancing Access,” on Thursday, May 11, from 2 to 6 p.m. at Abilities of Northwest Jersey, located at 264 Route 31 North, Washington, New Jersey.

Those attending will have the opportunity to gather information about a range of available disability services and resources. Various educational and informational materials will be on hand. The event is being hosted by the Warren County Advisory Council on Disabilities and sponsored by the agencies of DAWN, Center for Independent Living, and Abilities of Northwest Jersey.

“The focus of the Disability Resource Fair is to share all the valuable resources available to families, students, educators, support coordinators and persons with disabilities,” said Mary Papaserge, event chairperson and a member of the Warren County Advisory Council on Disabilities. “By sharing local resources related to student transition, post-secondary education, adult services, independent living agencies, recreation and by offering information about community agencies and organizations we hope to make individuals and families feel more at ease in planning for the future.”
